

2022 COPIC Humanitarian Award: Dr. Rush Pierce

We are proud to announce that Dr. Rush Pierce, an internal medicine specialist from Denver was chosen as the recipient of the 2022 Colorado COPIC Humanitarian award. Dr. Pierce is recognized for his commitment to making a difference in health care. The award was presented to Dr. Pierce at the Annual Colorado Medical Society Meeting in September.

Dr. Pierce was nominated for his extensive work with Doctor's Care. In his short tenure with Doctor's Care, Dr. Pierce has brought a wealth of medical knowledge and a caring attitude for patients, no matter their circumstances. He has provided exceptional leadership to their entire care network throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, drawing upon his years of experience as a medical director with a public health agency in Texas. He is highly respected by fellow physician volunteers, staff, and patients.

In addition to his work with Doctor's Care, Dr. Pierce also volunteered with the Denver Department of Public Health, focusing on AIDS research which was his area of expertise during his years working in public health. Once the pandemic hit, he quickly pivoted to supporting COVID efforts within the Denver Health system.

Dr. Pierce selected Doctor's Care to receive the $10,000 donation associated with the award.

To learn more about the COPIC Humanitarian Award or to nominate a physician, visit our website:

www.callcopic.com/about-copic/copic-humanitarian-award or email Laura Wadleigh at lwadleigh@copic.com.