

2021 COPIC Humanitarian Award: Dr. Mark Housley

We are proud to announce that Dr. Mark Housley a family medicine physician from Ogden, was chosen as the recipient of the 2021 COPIC Humanitarian Award. Dr. Housley is recognized for his commitment to making a difference in health care. The award was presented to Dr. Housley at the Annual Utah Medical Association House of Delegates on September 10th.

We are pleased to present the 2021 Utah Humanitarian award to Dr. Mark Housley. Dr. Housley is committed to providing health care to underserved communities both within Utah and abroad. In addition to his full-time job as a family medicine physician at Midtown Community Health Center where he is busy with obstetrics, newborn care, teaching family residents, and a full outpatient practice, Dr. Housley also regularly volunteers at the Davis Volunteer Medical Center, the only free clinic in Davis County, providing care to underinsured and underserved residents of Davis County. Dr. Housley takes the time to talk to patients and make sure they are getting the proper attention and care they deserve. Additionally, Dr. Housley travels to a small village in Guatemala for a month each year to provide medical services.

Every aspect of Dr. Housley's medical practice is geared towards patients in need. He truly goes above and beyond in his volunteer efforts and is well deserving of the award.

COPIC is thrilled to honor Dr. Housley as the 2021 COPIC Humanitarian Award winner, and on his behalf, grant $10,000 to Midtown Community Health Center.

To learn more about the COPIC Humanitarian Award or to nominate a physician, visit our website:

www.callcopic.com/about-copic/copic-humanitarian-award or email Laura Wadleigh at lwadleigh@copic.com.